The Love of Reading

Having a love of reading may or may not come easy for you and/or your child. Being consistent with reading and finding ways to “love” reading will be a HUGE benefit for your child. In life we spend a lot of time reading. We read everything from road signs to recipes, instructional manuals to exciting fiction books that help escape the day to day of every day living. Having books in your house that can be picked up and enjoyed is one way to build a love for reading. Another way to build a love for reading is talking about what everyone is reading and what is happening in the story.
